

COMMUNITY COLLEGE PARTNER AGREEMENT: STUDENT

This Agreement between the University of Redlands (herein referred to as “Redlands”) and Mt. San Jacinto College (herein referred to as Community College) documents the commitment of both parties to enter into a mutually beneficial education and training agreement.

Through this agreement, Redlands offers a tuition discount to Community College students who transfer directly to the University of Redlands School of Business.

Community College offers opportunities for Redlands to promote programs and recruit students. The promotion and recruitment process may include on-site information meetings, education fairs, and advertisements as approved by Community College; use of Community College logo in Redlands promotions and on the Redlands website; and other means of promotion and recruitment mutually supported by Redlands and Community College.

The tuition discount applies provided that student meets all admission requirements, student's account remains current and that student matriculates into a University of Redlands School of Business program directly from a California Community College with a minimum of 40 credits, transferring in at least 21 credits earned at Community College.
